1 Defendant Washington Mutual, Inc. ("WMI") submits this memorandum of law in 2
3 opposition to plaintiffs Esopus Creek Value LP ("Esopus") and Michael Willingham's
4
5 (collectively, "Plaintiffs") Motion to Remand or in the Alternative, Transfer for Hearing on 6
7 Remand (the "Motion").
8

9 PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

10
11 As part of its continuing campaign to "torpedo" debtors WMI and WMI Investment 12
13 Corp.'s (collectively, "Debtors") proposed joint plan of reorganization (the "Plan"), on March 3, 14
15 2010, the Official Committee of WMI's Equity Security Holders (the "Equity Committee") filed
16
17 an adversary proceeding (the "Adversary Proceeding") in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the 18
19 District of Delaware (the "Delaware Bankruptcy Court") against WMI. In the Adversary 20
21 Proceeding, the Equity Committee seeks to compel WMI to immediately convene and hold an 22
23 annual meeting of shareholders for the nomination and election of WMI's board of directors.
24
25 The Equity Committee supports the election of members of WMI's board of directors who will 26
27 oppose the Plan and the proposed global settlement (the "Settlement") of Debtors' multi-billion
28
29 dollar litigation claims against certain third-parties (and their claims against Debtors). The 30
31 Settlement—which was signed and submitted for the approval of the Delaware Bankruptcy Court
32
33 on May 21, 2010—serves as the centerpiece of the Plan and the primary source of recovery for 34
35 Debtors' creditors. Thus, if the Settlement were rejected, the Plan would be scuttled and Debtors
36
37 would have to begin again—after almost 2 years in chapter 11.
38

39 In an attempt to double their chances of blocking the Plan and Settlement, 54 days later, 40
41 Mr. Willingham, a member of the Equity Committee who allegedly acquired beneficial
42
43 ownership of WMI shares post-bankruptcy, and Esopus, another putative beneficial owner of 44
45 WMI shares and an affiliate of a member of the Equity Committee, filed the instant action in the 46
47 Superior Court of the State of Washington for the County of Thurston, seeking the same relief
48
49 under the same Washington statute against the same defendant as the Equity Committee seeks in 50
51 the Adversary Proceeding. Plaintiffs erroneously state that Judge Walrath, before whom WMI's

1 chapter 11 case has been pending since September 2008, "paved the way" for this case. (Mot.
2 Remand 5.) In fact, although Judge Walrath found the automatic stay inapplicable to this action
3 as a matter of law, Her Honor did not consider whether—much less rule that—Plaintiffs' claim
4 had merit or that this Court (or any state court) is the appropriate forum for the claim. (See Order
5 (Apr. 26, 2010), attached as Ex. A to the Declaration of William C. Rava in Support of 6 Washington Mutual, Inc.'s Opposition to Plaintiffs' Motion to Remand or, in the Alternative,
7 Transfer for Hearing on Remand ("Rava Opp. Decl.").)

9
10 On May 13, 2010—well before the May 27, 2010 deadline for doing so—WMI removed 11 this case to the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Washington (for referral to this 12 Court) under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1452(a) and § 1334(b) and, to further avoid any procedural delay, the 13 next day, moved to transfer, stay, or dismiss the case in favor of the first-filed Adversary
14 Proceeding. In support, WMI argued (among other things) that because the outcome of this case
15 could derail Debtors' chapter 11 cases, it should be heard in the Delaware Bankruptcy Court.
16 (See Dkt. # 11.)

18 Plaintiffs now move for equitable remand under 28 U.S.C. § 1452(b) or, in the 19 alternative, for an order transferring their motion (as opposed to this case as a whole) to the 20 Delaware Bankruptcy Court. Although Plaintiffs assert that no Court has "ever permitted a 21 matter filed under" RCW 23B.07.030 "to be taken away from the appropriate superior court," 22 they ignore that §§ 1452(a) and 1334(b) expressly authorize the removal of bankruptcy-related
23 claims originally filed in state court under state law. (Mot. Remand 6.) Indeed, in enacting 24 § 1452(b), Congress's express purpose was to "'to grant comprehensive jurisdiction to the 25 bankruptcy courts so that they might deal efficiently and expeditiously with all matters
26 connected with the bankruptcy estate. . . ." Celotex Corp. v. Edwards, 514 U.S. 300, 308 (1995)
27 (quotation omitted). Significantly, Plaintiffs "do not contest that" this action is "'related to'
28 WaMu's chapter 11 case or constitute[s] a 'core' proceeding within the meaning of 28 U.S.C.
29 § 157(b)(2)(A)," nor do they "contest that under 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b) this Court has original

1 jurisdiction over the claim asserted in this action." (Pls.' Stat. Pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P.
2 9027(e)(3) ¶ 4 (Dkt. # 22).)

4 WMI submits that the Motion should be denied in its entirety. First, because this case
5 could derail Debtors' chapter 11 cases, it is illogical for it to be heard outside the Delaware
6 Bankruptcy Court—which is best suited to adjudicate Plaintiffs' claim; this fact alone warrants
7 denial of the Motion. Further, if this case were remanded, it would be prosecuted simultaneously
8 with the Adversary Proceeding; the resulting waste of judicial and WMI estate resources also 9 supports the retention of federal jurisdiction over this case. Considerations of comity likewise
10 support denial of the Motion: allowing the instant action to proceed concurrently with the 11 mirror-image Adversary Proceeding could lead to conflicting judgments—an outcome that will 12 only further and unnecessarily complicate matters.
13

15 In contrast, denying the Motion would not require the Delaware Bankruptcy Court to 16 address novel or complex issues of state law (Washington law in this area is neither novel nor 17 complex, and, in any event, the Delaware Bankruptcy Court has ample experience applying other
18 states' laws); prejudice Plaintiffs or any other non-debtor parties (the Equity Committee
19 previously brought an identical action in the Delaware Bankruptcy Court, and there are no other 20 non-debtor parties); or impose an additional burden on the Delaware Bankruptcy Court (which is 21 already presiding over an identical case). Hence, taken together, the equitable remand factors
22 weigh heavily against sending this case back to state court. (See, infra, Point I.)
23

25 Second, Plaintiffs agree, in the alternative, to the transfer of the Motion (though not this 26 case as a whole) to the Delaware Bankruptcy Court. Putting aside the fact that (as far as WMI is 27 aware) no case from this District or the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit endorses a 28 federal court's transferring a case before deciding a pending remand motion, § 1452(b) expressly 29 authorizes only the court to which the action was removed to decide an equitable remand motion.

1 Last, Plaintiffs' proposed procedure would result in undue delay and be highly inefficient. (See,
2 infra, Point II.)<sup>1</sup>

4
5 For all these reasons and those set out below, the Motion should be denied in its entirety.

7 BACKGROUND

8
9 The background relevant to this Opposition is found on pages 3-7 of WMI's Motion to 10 Transfer, Stay, or Dismiss. (Dkt. # 11.) Additional background regarding the Plan and 11 Settlement is found on pages 7-9 of Debtors' Amended Disclosure Statement, filed with the 12 Delaware Bankruptcy Court on May 21, 2010. (See Am. Disclosure Statement, Rava Opp.

18 ARGUMENT<sup>2</sup>

19 I. PLAINTIFFS HAVE NOT (AND CANNOT) SATISFY THE REQUIREMENTS 20 FOR EQUITABLE REMAND UNDER § 1452(b)

21 Plaintiffs have not (and cannot) satisfy the requirements for equitable remand under 22 § 1452(b). In deciding whether to grant equitable remand under § 1452(b), courts may consider
23 "up to" 14 factors:
24
25

- 26 (1) the effect or lack thereof on the efficient administration of 27 the estate if the Court recommends [remand or] abstention;
28 (2) extent to which state law issues predominate over
29 bankruptcy issues; (3) difficult or unsettled nature of applicable
30 law; (4) presence of related proceeding commenced in state
31 court or other nonbankruptcy proceeding; (5) jurisdictional
32 basis, if any, other than § 1334; (6) degree of relatedness or 33 remoteness of proceeding to main bankruptcy case; (7) the 34 substance rather than the form of an asserted core proceeding;
35 (8) the feasibility of severing state law claims from core
36 bankruptcy matters to allow judgments to be entered in state
37 court with enforcement left to the bankruptcy court; (9) the 38 burden on the bankruptcy court's docket; (10) the likelihood that 39 the commencement of the proceeding in bankruptcy court
40
41
42
43
44

45 <sup>1</sup> For these reasons, among others, WMI did not agree to Plaintiffs' proposal that the parties agree to the 46 transfer of this case to the Delaware Bankruptcy Court without prejudice to Plaintiffs' purported right to seek 47 remand in that court—something that Plaintiffs would not be permitted to do. Hence, Plaintiffs' suggestion that
48 WMI refused to consent to the proposed stipulation to engender procedural delay is incorrect. (See Mot. Remand 4.)
49

50 <sup>2</sup> Unless otherwise indicated, documents filed in the Delaware Bankruptcy Court referred to herein are 51 attached to the Declaration of William C. Rava in Support of WMI's Motion to Transfer, Stay, or Dismiss. (Dkt.
13.)

1 involves forum shopping by one of the parties; (11) the 2 existence of a right to a jury trial; (12) the presence in the 3 proceeding of nondebtor parties; (13) comity; and (14) the 4 possibility of prejudice to other parties in the action.

5
6 Nilsen v. Neilson (In re Cedar Funding, Inc.), 419 B.R. 807, 821 n.18 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2009). In 7 addition, courts have held that whether a proceeding is "core is a significant factor weighing in 8 favor of adjudicating the dispute in the bankruptcy court." Id.

10
11 Here, factors 1, 6-7, and 13 weigh against remand, and the remaining factors (2-3, 4-5, 8-12 12, and 14) are neutral.

15 Factors 1 and 6: Effect on Efficient Administration of the Estate and Degree of 16 Relatedness/Remoteness of Proceeding to Main Bankruptcy Case. These 2 factors militate
17 against remand. The outcome of this case could significantly impact the administration of 18 Debtors' estates: if WMI were ordered to immediately convene and hold an annual meeting of 19 shareholders for the nomination and election of its board of directors, the expense to its estate
20 would be considerable, totaling in the millions of dollars.<sup>3</sup> As a result, distributions to WMI's
21 creditors, who have gone 20 months without payment, would be adversely affected. And, if this 22 case were returned to state court, it would be prosecuted simultaneously with an identical
23 proceeding already pending in the Delaware Bankruptcy Court (the Adversary Proceeding); the 24 resulting waste of judicial and WMI estate resources also militates against remand. Most 25 important, if Plaintiffs succeed in causing the appointment of directors who will reject the Plan
26 (and, instead, back a "swing for the fences" litigation strategy against (among others) JPMorgan 27 Chase, N.A. and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.), Debtors' chapter 11 cases likely will be 28 jeopardized. For these reasons, maintaining bankruptcy court jurisdiction over this case is 29
30
31
32
33
34
35
36
37
38
39
40
41
42
43
44

45 <sup>3</sup> At the least, WMI would incur the following costs if it were required to hold an annual meeting of 46 shareholders: (a) prepare an annual report, including obtaining audited financial statements; (b) prepare the proxy
47 statement; (c) pay legal costs associated with seeking exemptive relief from the U.S. Securities and Exchange
48 Commission and preparation of the proxy statement and accompanying annual report to shareholders in compliance
49 with SEC requirements; (d) preparing proxy materials for SEC filing, including typesetting and alterations; (e) file,
50 print, process, mail and otherwise disseminate proxy materials; (f) solicit proxies; and (g) rent a venue large enough
51 to accommodate shareholders.

1 consistent with both the equitable remand factors and the purpose of § 1452(b): "to grant
2 comprehensive jurisdiction to the bankruptcy courts so that they might deal efficiently and 3 expeditiously with all matters connected with the bankruptcy estate. . . ." Celotex, 514 U.S. at 4 308 (quotation omitted).
5
6

8
9 Factor 7: Substance Rather Than Form of an Asserted Core Proceeding. Plaintiffs'
10 claim—which even Plaintiffs do not dispute is "core" in nature—could impact the administration
11 of Debtors' chapter 11 cases and fundamentally alter the relationship between Debtors and their 12 stakeholders. Specifically, the stated purpose of the Adversary Proceeding and this action is to 13 cause a re-distribution of Debtors' resources for the sole benefit of the Debtors' most junior
14 stakeholders—Debtors' shareholders; hence, regardless of whether it is pled as a state law cause
15 of action, the substance, and likely impact, of Plaintiffs' claim strongly supports retaining 16 bankruptcy court jurisdiction over this action.
17
18

19
20
21
22
23
24
25 Factor 13: Comity. This consideration likewise counts against remand. Judicial comity
26 is defined as the "recognition and respect that a court of one state or jurisdiction shows to another
27 state or jurisdiction in giving effect to the other's laws and political decisions." Black's Law 28 Dictionary 242 (8th ed. 2004). If this case were remanded, it could not be consolidated with the 29 Adversary Proceeding. Requiring WMI to simultaneously litigate the same 2 cases in 2 different 30 fora (commenced by or on behalf of the same parties) could result in conflicting judgments; such 31 an outcome is, of course, inconsistent with the principles of comity.
32
33

34
35
36
37
38
39 Factors 2 and 3: Extent to Which Issues of State Law Predominate and Difficulty of 40 Applicable State Law. These 2 factors are neutral. Although Plaintiffs' claim is pled under state
41 law, its adjudication will require analysis of WMI's reorganization: as set out in WMI's
42 opposition to the Equity Committee's motion for summary judgment in the Adversary
43 Proceeding, whether Plaintiffs are entitled to the relief that they seek depends on the resolution
44 of factual and legal issues related to the Equity Committee, Plaintiffs, WMI, and its chapter 11
45 case. (See WMI Opp. Summ. J. Mot. 8-22.) Given its familiarity with both WMI's chapter 11
46
47
48
49
50
51

1 case and the Adversary Proceeding, the Delaware Bankruptcy Court is best suited to adjudicate
2 Plaintiffs' claim. Additionally, Plaintiffs apparently concede that the applicable law is not
3 complex. (See Mot. Remand 7 ("This case involves a simple action arising out of a Washington
4 statute. . . .").) See In re Wa. Mut., Inc. Sec. Litig., 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 107986, at *18 (W.D.
5 Wash. Nov. 2, 2009) (applicability of state law did not require equitable remand: "while 6 Plaintiffs' claims are based on state law, they are not unusual or complex" (citation omitted)).
7
8 Regardless, there is no reason that the Delaware Bankruptcy Court cannot correctly apply
9 Washington law. See SenoRx, Inc. v. Coudert Bros., LLP, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 40923, at *8
10 (N.D. Cal. May 24, 2007) ("Despite the presence of state law claims and the need to interpret a 11 state statute, bankruptcy courts are capable of resolving issues of state law, as the court will be 12 able to do in this case." (citation omitted)).
13

15 Factor 4: Presence of Related Proceeding Commenced in State Court or Other Non-
16 bankruptcy Proceeding. This factor is also neutral. Indeed, because the Washington state case
17 was removed, there is no longer a related proceeding in state court (or related non-bankruptcy 18 proceeding); instead, the only related proceeding is the Adversary Proceeding—the pendency of 19 which, of course, counsels against remand.
20
21

22 Factors 5 and 6: Jurisdictional Basis, If Any, Other Than § 1334. Although WMI
23 removed this case under §§ 1452(a) and 1334(b), Plaintiffs do not allege that this action could 24 not have been brought in federal district court under federal diversity jurisdiction, and as 25 Plaintiffs admit, because this is a "core" proceeding, it can and should be adjudicated in 26 bankruptcy court. See 28 U.S.C. §§ 1332, 157(b)(1).
27
28

29 Factor 8: Feasibility of Severing State Law Claims from Core Bankruptcy Matters to 30 Allow Judgments to Be Entered in State Court with Enforcement Left to Bankruptcy Court. This 31 factor does not apply to this action: there is no severable state law claim; rather, the state law
32 claim is itself a core bankruptcy claim.
33
34

1 Factors 9 and 10: Burden on Bankruptcy Court Docket and Likelihood That
2
3 Commencement of Proceeding in Bankruptcy Court Involves Forum Shopping by One of the 4
5 Parties. The Equity Committee has already filed an identical claim against WMI in the Delaware
6
7 Bankruptcy Court (the Adversary Proceeding), and, as a result, denying the Motion and 8
9 transferring this case will not increase the Delaware Bankruptcy Court's burdens. Moreover,
10
11 WMI's attempt to have this case returned to the court in which Plaintiffs' representatives (the 12
13 Equity Committee) originally filed it cannot constitute forum shopping. If anything, WMI's 14
15 motion to transfer is the remedy to (Plaintiffs') forum shopping.

16
17 Factor 11: Right to a Jury Trial. Because Plaintiffs have not sought a jury trial, this 18
19 factor is irrelevant here.

20
21 Factors 12 and 14: Presence in the Proceeding of Nondebtor Parties and Possibility of 22
23 Prejudice to Other Parties in the Action. Other than Plaintiffs, there are no non-debtor parties to 24
25 this action; and even if the Motion were denied, Plaintiffs would not be prejudiced (nor do they 26
27 claim that they would): as the Equity Committee previously filed an identical case in the 28
29 Delaware Bankruptcy Court, even if the instant action were to remain in federal court, Plaintiffs 30
31 would still be able to litigate their claim in the forum of their (first) choice (the Delaware
32
33 Bankruptcy Court). Conversely, if the Motion were granted, Debtors and their creditors would 34
35 be considerably prejudiced. (See, supra, e.g., Discussion of Factors 1 and 6.)<sup>4</sup>

36
37 II. THE MOTION CANNOT PROPERLY BE TRANSFERRED TO THE 38 DELAWARE BANKRUPTCY COURT
39

40 Plaintiffs agree, in the alternative, to the transfer of the Motion (though not the case as a 41
42 whole) to the Delaware Bankruptcy Court. Setting aside the fact that (as far as WMI is aware)
43
44 no case from this District or the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit has endorsed a 45

46
47
48 <sup>4</sup> Plaintiffs do not move to abstain under 28 U.S.C. § 1334(c)(1) and (2); nor could they: the Washington
49 state action has already been removed. See Schulman v. Cal. (In re Lazar), 237 F.3d 967, 981-82 (9th Cir. 2001)
50 ("because there is no pending state proceeding, §§ 1334(c)(1) and 1334(c)(2) are simply inapplicable to this case") 51 cited in SenoRx, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 40923, at *5-6 ("In the Ninth Circuit, abstention is unavailable if there is no pending state court proceeding.").

1 federal court's transferring a case before deciding a pending remand motion, § 1452(b), the very
2 statute upon which Plaintiffs move, plainly states that only the court to which the action was 3 removed is authorized to decide an equitable remand motion. See 28 U.S.C. § 1452(b) ("The
4 court to which such claim or cause of action is removed may remand such claim or cause of 5 action on any equitable ground." (emphasis added)); see Frelin v. Oakwood Homes Corp., 292
6 B.R. 369, 380 (Bankr. E.D. Ark. 2003) ("§ 1452 provides for removal to the district in which the
7 removed civil action was pending rather than the district in which the bankruptcy case was filed,
8 and provides that the court to which the civil action is removed may remand such cause of action
9 on any equitable ground." (emphasis added)); AG Indus., Inc. v. AK Steel Corp. (In re AG Indus.,
10 Inc.), 279 B.R. 534, 540 (Bankr. S.D. Ohio 2002) (same).

11 Here, given that this action was removed to the U.S. District Court for the Western 12 District of Washington (for referral to this Court), under § 1452(b), only this Court is authorized
13 to decide the Motion. Moreover, by commencing 2 identical actions across the United States,
14 Plaintiffs and their representatives on the Equity Committee have already wasted judicial and 15 party resources. By seeking what is effectively a "conditional" venue transfer, they risk the 16 further waste of judicial and party resources. Indeed, it would be highly inefficient to send this
17 case approximately 3,000 miles across the U.S. only to have Judge Walrath decide what is a
18 threshold procedural issue; it would be much more efficient for this Court to decide the both the 19 remand and transfer issues. Specifically, if this Court were to deny the Motion, but grant WMI's 20 motion to transfer, this case would travel across the country a maximum of one time (from this 21 Court to the Delaware Bankruptcy Court); in contrast, should this Court transfer this Motion to 22 Judge Walrath and then Her Honor deny remand, it will travel across the country twice (from this 23 Court to the Delaware Bankruptcy Court and then back from the Delaware Bankruptcy Court to 24 Washington Superior Court)—with all the attendant delays. So "as a logical and practical
25 matter, th[is] [C]ourt should determine whether any bankruptcy court should hear a proceeding

5 CONCLUSION
6

7 For all the foregoing reasons, Plaintiffs' Motion to Remand or in the Alternative, Transfer
8

47 <sup>5</sup> Plaintiffs' request for legal fees and costs likewise should be denied. A court may only award fees where 48 a removal "lacked an objectively reasonable basis." Martin v. Franklin Capital Corp., 546 U.S. 132, 141 (2005).
49 Plaintiffs have not alleged that this Court lacks jurisdiction under § 1334 or that removal under § 1452(b) was 50 technically improper, and, as set out above, equitable remand is not warranted here. As a result, an award of legal 51 fees or costs would be improper in this case.
